MONDAY, May 15-6 P. M. the improvement was of considerable importance, and it must have been particularly satisfactory to holders; they have been long waiting for this movement, and we trust age values, and it will require a pretty active inflation to get them up to points they re-eeded from. Cumberland Coal stock has been moving up steadily for some days, and there appears to be a strong party at work on it. Recent developments relative to the intrinsic value of the stock, have doubtless attracted new buyers, and the probability is that higher prices will be realised; but whether old holders will avail themselves of the advance to slide out and leave the burden of mana gement, &c., on others' shoulders, or not, is a question a few weeks will determine. It is our impression that they will, and that in time the stock will again be as low as it ever has been. Whatever may ultimately be the actual value-of the stock, we look upon the present movement as a purely speculative one. Eric Raffread has recovered a portion of the recent decline; but we see no basis for this advance, and do not believe it can be long sustained. New York Central Railroad has risen three per cent in as many days, and if the improvement continues the bears will put out contracts largely. It is considered by many as good a sale at present prices as can be found on the list. We have for some time been of the opinion that there is not a railroad stock in the country that is actu-ally worth a fraction over par, and a good many not worth even that. Railroad bonds have gone up with the fancies. Hlinois Central and New York Central bonds have been unwarrantably depressed, but a turn has taken place, and they are now steadily approaching their real value. At present prices they pay eight and nine per a decreace in bullion of £196,780; in active circulation, £220,100; in private deposits, £741,776; in government securities,£536,529; and in other securities,£426,421. In public deposits there had been an increase of £2,359; in the rest, £5, 727; and in unemployed notes, £13,690. In American stocks, there had been no transactions of consequence, and there was no particular demand for any except United States sixes. In the produce market, there had been no change of consequence, as far as prices were concerned, but business was very inactive. The circular of Brown, Shipley & Co., of the 2d inst., says: "We have no improvement to notice in business, almost every description of produce being as dull as can well be imagined, and if there be one article more difficult of sale than and it there be one article more dimensi of sale than another, at a fair market price, it is cotton. The quantity on sale so far exceeds the demand, that it is quite im-possible to realize, except to a very limited extent, at the nominally current rates to-day." There had been no actual decline in quotations, but it was impossible to at fect sales.

decline in flour and Indian corn. At the decline the demand was moderate.

The London Bankers' Magazine for May contains the oflowing notice regarding the state of the money mar-

The positive declaration of war, and the excitement ocasioned by the prospect of immediate hostilities both in the Black Sea and the Baltic, have produced increased anxiety in financial circles. It is felt that the augmented expenditure necessary to maintain our armaments in an efficient state, however economically conducted, must eventually create disturbance is the money market, the earliest effects of which have been presented in the shape of a double income tax and the proposed issue of Excliquer bonds. Although Mr. Gladstone may be able, through the latter operation, to recruit the resources of government, the position of the bank, unfavorably affected as it is by the continuous drain of bullion to the continent, is not unlikely, if the existing demand remain unmitigated, to cause a further advance in the rate of discount. Arrivals of gold from Australia, together with the payment of the dividends, and the final liquidation of £2,035,818 by the Chanceller of the Exchequer to the dissentient holders of oid South Sea Annuities, created increased case in the money market after the 8th of April, the terms for the negotiation of first class paper descending from 5 and 5½ per sent to 4½ and 4½ per cent. The present quotation is 4½ to 5 per cent, with a fair inquiry for accommodation, and the allowance for deposits in Lombard street varies from 4 to 4½ per cent, according to the nature of the arrangement.

This is a very favorable exhibit. It shows a contraction in places where it should be, and an expansion where it should be, to preserve a sound, strong, safe state of things in financial affairs. A comparison of aggregates show, during the past week, a decrease in discounts of $493,794; in circulation, $315,211; and an increase in deposits of $348,162; and in specie, $945,024. This last item is the most important, and it is certainly gratifying to find an accumulation of precious metals in the face of such an active exportation. It is true we are drawing specie from nearly every section of the Union, and concentrating it at this point, and, it is possible, when the tide turns against us, our supply may be reduced to a
